

PharmiGene

|                                 |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |       |                                |
|---------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------|--------------------------------|
| Contact Person                  | Yu-ligh Liou                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | Title | Director, Business Development |
| Address                         | 9F-3, No. 21, Lane 169, Kangning St., Xizhi City, Taipei County 221, Taiwan                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |       |                                |
| Website                         | www.pharmigene.com                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |       |                                |
| Year of foundation              | 2005                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |       |                                |
| Company Categories              | <input type="checkbox"/> Novel Therapeutics <input type="checkbox"/> Genomics <input type="checkbox"/> Pharmaceuticals<input type="checkbox"/> Diagnostics                                      Medical Devices <input type="checkbox"/> Other _____                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |       |                                |
| Company Overview                | With its primary focus in the field of pharmacogenetics, Taipei-based PharmiGene provides diagnostic products and services for the advancement of personalized medicine, with its mission being to reduce morbidity and mortality caused by adverse drug reactions (ADR). The company was spun-off from the renown research institute, Academia Sinica, in Taiwan.                                                                                                                                                 |       |                                |
| Product                         | 1) PG 1502 DNA detection kit: risk assessment kit for the prevention of Carbamazepine induced SJS/TEN (Stevens-Johnson syndrome and toxic epidermal necrolysis). 2) PG 5801 DNA detection kit: risk assessment kit for the prevention of Allopurinol induced severe cutaneous adverse reactions (SCAR), which include hypersensitivity syndrome (HSS) and SJS/TEN. 3) Warfarin dosage prediction kits: dosage prediction kits for providing a safer and more effective dosing strategy for Warfarin. |       |                                |
| Achievement/Award & Recognition | Taiwan Healthcare Industry Innovation and Excellence Awards 2008: Gold award 2008 Taipei Biotech Awards: RD Innovation Award: Special Mention Award. 2007 Taipei Biotech Awards: Transfer of Biotech Award: Silver Award. 2007 Taipei Biotech Awards: Industry-University Cooperation Award: Gold Award.                                                                                                                                                                                      |       |                                |
| Company Core Competence         | PharmiGene, Inc. (PGI) is a company with focus on advancing the field of pharmacogenetics. PGI is dedicated to providing innovative diagnostic products and services for the advancement of personalized medicine to improve patient care. With PGI's efforts, morbidity and mortality caused by these adverse drug reactions (ADR) can be effectively prevented.                                                                                                                                                  |       |                                |
| Partnering Objectives           | Global distributors; RD collaboration with biomarker application.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |       |                                |